Key findings from the survey

Since teachers are the principal actors in the instructional process who strongly influence the quality of teaching and learning, their performance should be properly evaluated and needs to be given more emphasis. The major purposes of teacher evaluation can be summarized in two functions; improvement of teacher's own practice and ensuring teacher's performance at their best to enhance student learning. For this reason, the process of teacher evaluation has become an integral part of the educational practice in schools and universities. A properly designed teachers' appraisal system can help to enhance the quality of education by improving the moral and job satisfaction of teachers.

As usual every year, teacher educators along with the Principal are assessed by the student teachers by their frank opinions in the form of rating scale to series of questions with respect to parameters like, teachers punctuality, discipline, content knowledge, creativity, students motivation, uplifting the academically weaker students, evaluation process, behavior and teachers victimization of students etc. From the overall data of the rating scale, it is observed that the more than 85% of students have given their opinion as excellent in all the above-mentioned parameters. This in turn motivates the Teacher Educator to give their for the students and motivate them become value oriented best teachers in the society.

Since teachers are the principal actors in the instructional process who strongly influence the quality of teaching and learning, their performance should be properly evaluated and needs to be given more emphasis. The major purposes of teacher evaluation can be summarized in two functions; improvement of teacher's own practice and ensuring teacher's performance at their best to enhance student learning. For this reason, the process of teacher evaluation has become an integral part of the educational practice in schools and universities. A properly designed teachers' appraisal system can help to enhance the quality of education by improving the moral and job satisfaction of teachers.

As usual every year, teacher educators along with the Principal are assessed by the student teachers by their frank opinions in the form of rating scale to series of questions with respect to parameters like, teachers punctuality, discipline, content knowledge, creativity, students motivation, uplifting the academically weaker students, evaluation process, behavior and teachers victimization of students etc. From the overall data of the rating scale, it is observed that the more than 85% of students have given their opinion as excellent in all the above-mentioned parameters. This in turn motivates the Teacher Educator to give their for the students and motivate them become value oriented best teachers in the society.

Key findings from the survey

Since teachers are the principal actors in the instructional process who strongly influence the quality of teaching and learning, their performance should be properly evaluated and needs to be given more emphasis. The major purposes of teacher evaluation can be summarized in two functions; improvement of teacher's own practice and ensuring teacher's performance at their best to enhance student learning. For this reason, the process of teacher evaluation has become an integral part of the educational practice in schools and universities. A properly designed teachers' appraisal system can help to enhance the quality of education by improving the moral and job satisfaction of teachers.

As usual every year, teacher educators along with the Principal are assessed by the student teachers by their frank opinions in the form of rating scale to series of questions with respect to parameters like, teachers punctuality, discipline, content knowledge, creativity, students motivation, uplifting the academically weaker students, evaluation process, behavior and teachers victimization of students etc. From the overall data of the rating scale, it is observed that the more than 85% of students have given their opinion as excellent in all the above-mentioned parameters. This in turn motivates the Teacher Educator to give their for the students and motivate them become value oriented best teachers in the society.
